Every county has its tradition of some giant bear who held to the last some rock retreat. Every region has stories of torn and slain hunters who meddled too rashly with the ways of the terrible grizaly.

One of the noted old hunters, ex-Sanator Thomas N. Wand, of San Francisco, in a recent interview told me of his adventures some twenty years ago.

He motioned us forward, and pointed across a more open glade, perhaps 159 yards wide. There was the most terrible creature I ever suw before or since. The glade was thickly set with scrubsosks, manzanits and other small growths four or five feet high, and tangled with vines of all sorts. It was totally impassable to a man. The almost imperceptible breeze was in "The weapon I carried at that time was a well tried Sharpe's breechloading rifle, with ounce bullets. I was an excellent shot and felt ready to do my best. But the size of my autagonist made the affair look very serious to a man with relatives. He was seated on his haunches enting berries and wheeling around from one bush to another. With one great paw he banks bush over, and with the other raked the fruit men whose stock they destroy; but stories into his enormous mouth, and even in that of the time when they were londs of the posture the old hing of the bears looked twice as tall as a man.

"I was to have the first shot and to aim at the heart. When he turns broadside to you, our leader said, let him have it just under the shoulder blade. Give him a second shot in the roof of the mouth, well back, as he comes for you. If that don't stop him Ropers will try for his eyes as he comes on, and possibly he can get in two shots. Then both of you jump aside as far as you can, and fall flat in the end of the charge."

"A moment later we had taken our places and were watching the great, grim beast turn about on his haunches, finishing his breakfast. Almost immediately the point of the shoulder blade showed with the sunlight full upon the streak of light colored far. Then I fired, and instantly heard a great growl, group or howl. My companions stood at my side with their guns ready. The bear tore into the thick bushes, making a rush for his enemies, but neither saw nor smelt us, so he stopped in the middle of the glade and be-gon to wreak his giant rage on the bushes. St. Louis to Colorado via Wichita.
Commencing Sunday, July 13, 1890, the Missouri Pacific railway will run through sleeping cars from St. Louis via Pleasant Hill. Rich Hill, Fort Scott and Wichita to Genieseo and from thence to Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver. This change was made on account of a great many people from the east going to Colorado being desirous of going via Wichita. The train will stop here two hours, giving all a chance to view the "Peerless Princess" and still land passengers in Colorado same time as if they had gone, via Kausas City.
It also gives the citizens of Wichita seeping car service from here to Colorado. Returning, it gives us through sleeping car service Wichita to St. Louis, and gives the Colorado people a channe to go ceast via Wichita. This change will undoubtedly be appreciated by the traveling public and especially by the citizens of Wichita. If you are going east or West go via the popular row thramed more. Thromes despecially you are going east or west go via the popular new through route. Through chair and sleeping car service.
